

HOLIDAY HOMEWORK

Most of the students would just be elated if they spend one of their summer vacations without homework. This would lead to the ideal vacation theory for the children. But this will never be possible as the teachers have one of their fundamental duties as ‘to burden the minds of children with holiday homework in vacation and working days in ratio of 100:1’. But the children acquired themselves a fundamental duty as ‘to complete the whole of the homework before the half summer vacation’. This is the theory of antagonistic fundamental duties. But think up what will happen if just one question takes your whole summer vacations.

Anil a same category child as most of us – ‘a school hating boy’. But pushed by his pushing parents he was pushed to go to spend almost 6 bored hours according to Anil in the yellow building. One child has always a minimum of zero favorite subjects which is applicable to a few backbenchers. Though Anil was a school hating boy but mathematics was his favorite subject and scored the highest marks in his class.

One fine summer morn Anil was just busy packing his bag as a large, tympanum destroying sound came from the mouth of the three wheeler that carries him to the old school building. Of course he can’t avoid that sound but can absorb that sound and thus he started to think it is the most beautiful and he is a flower with butterflies sucking nectar. In the gap of just 10 minutes he was comfortable adjusting him in that three wheeler. After reaching the school he remembered that today is the last day of going to school after which he can lead another burdened comfortable life in the bedroom and study room. Thus as he entered the yellow building a sharp unattracting tink, tink bell for assembly started honking as if he was surrounded in a traffic. He ran into the good old classroom which was just in an uninviting mood as the whole students of the classroom had already put their soft skinned and hard covered black layer foot in the square shaped plane.

After a normal assembly he ran to classroom and sat in his bench and waited for the teachers to come but his hands were clutched together praying not to give holiday homework. The first half was somehow passed in a hellish way but second half had only one period which was mathematics and he didn't want to spend a single moment out of class.

A few questions were given which can be completed in a few days but the last question of all was one of the terrific one for Anil. The question was just to 'find alpha'.

After the school thus Anil went to his teacher and asked how to do last question. The teacher said just to take values of given question and solve it. But Anil said that question was almost incomplete as there were no values when the teacher was called for some time and went out.

Frustrated Anil came back to his home and later on when the work teacher was given was completed, the teacher searched Anil for sometime but all the work he did losing his ATPs was all in vain. The teacher then thought to excuse all the children as the question was really incomplete. Side by side he also became sad as the question was really a fantabulous question which would use all the 38 ATPs produced in one Krebs's cycle of Aerobic respiration and continuingly in following Krebs's cycle!!!

Anil was sitting in his room when his mother rang the bell as she came back from her office as that was also her last working day for upcoming holidays. She noticed the worst ever black cloud over her son's blue sky face. Later after showing all the homework; his mother asked about the black cloud which had just appeared over the face and the result came that it became a horrible thunderstorm not of the wrath but of the complicated dilemma he was presently tackling in the head.

Anil just controlled that and said that he was not able to solve a mathematics problem for which he feared as he was not able to click the solution of the question in his mind. His mother demanded the question again which his mother saw and said simply it was incorrect and it was not at all sufficient to fulfill the appetite of the brain. Anil was not at all feeling well and closed his eyes on the soft mattresses as early in the evening.

From the next day including yesterday, the whole holiday homework was just completed in 1/5 days of holidays but alas that single question just took his head reeling. He went to library and searched all the related topics of mathematics becoming a bookworm he was not at all successful in his library book search mission. He then shifted the tune of the whole mind into some other sections of the library and went to search instead for what is alpha which would indirectly result in forming the fraction of the solution. But if the luck favors everything is as small as an atom otherwise a dinosaur would be difficult to describe that.

This time the plan worked almost and he got the old information that alpha is a Greek letter and thought the only idea which was at that time in his mind to visit the GREECE. But the foremost problem was to persuade his father and mother.

THE ACT OF PERSUASION

Later in the evening his father came who was just a businessman. When the news of going to Greece vibrated in the ossicles of the tall man he just became so serious that later on he laughed as much as possible. He just agreed so easily that the next day he went to book the ticket. All this just flashed through the mind of Anil when he saw his stolid tall man in front of his clear eyes.

Actually in his real life he was an ironical fellow who will become angry whenever there is a foreign trip or package. He never loves going out of the house in vacation but in other days he will ask his family to pack bags and go to a far adventurous land which was uninhabited by the family. At present the situation was not a limpid cool pond having a lot of escaping fishes but an unclear dirty pool which coagulates all the dirt from industries long and nearby.

In the night his father was watching television when Anil entered and asked for a ticket of Greece flight the living face unturned remained the same and just asked the reason with a red eye and clear face. There at that moment his father did a blunder which he almost never does as he knew if he asks his son for a reason then he would really make suitable reasons for fire on water. But due to over abuse by colourful channels of the idiot box, he was just distracted from distracting his son's mind from Greece trip.

Here Anil took his chance to show his perfection in art of persuasion. He just brightened his working mind to mingle up various options to crash the mistake question like a fire diverting the smoothness of a fighter plane. He just said becoming a little mewing pussy cat 'My dear ironical dad, I wouldn't just force you to say indirectly no or yes as you may have in your core of heart.' Just infuriated the unseasonal thunderstorm cracked to say 'Why you're foolish ideas always form an indirect water reservoir to save my downpour.’ And he coughed; thus just Anil took chance to come to the direct point that is to form a reason-‘Dad you love to visit places in working days thus I wish you to form an opinion of changing a decision to take us out in this long lasting entertainment. Please.’

The thunderstorm unusually hypnotized by over flowery words he just simply unbelievably accepted the old theory of old reasoning as he thought the head of the coin instead of the tail for the first time ever in the continuous defaulting persuasion by Anil. But he also proposed his theory of telling words in inappropriate places which was accepted by his son. He thought of the beautiful places to roam in Greece. Thus half persuasion act was almost completed.

But this act of persuasion was not at all complete till his mother was not persuaded. The next day Anil went near his mother and asked the same question but his mother was another difficult hurdle for the finishing line to win the half won race otherwise it would be just like the hare and the tortoise.

The afternoon of the next day saw one of the most difficult situations for Anil as his mother straightly refused to accept the truth of the first half persuasion. He just then tried to create one another reason to take him to Greece thus a hitting idea stroke his mind. His mother was one of the fans of different wearing costumes. Thus he straightforward asked to see the futuristic dresses she would visualize in the whole area of market in Greece adding the floral designs which flow high and then totally look vanished from the long faith eyesight. He did add the elephant and ant combination over the sarcastic designs. Though he had no idea on the dresses available in the Greece but he described it with a defined confidence so as to make his mother’s mind accept the virtually true phenomenon of high flattering description of persuasion.

Thus she was just forced to see the realistic thought between the virtual ideas of Anil and thus the act of persuasion was almost complete because till tickets of flight are not shown in front of his eyes then he would just believe that his act of persuasion was complete and then he would be feel a clear peace in his boiling brain as there he can search for alpha.

The next day his father went to the ticket counter and brought the flight ticket to create a history in vacations of the family. He thus just brought three tickets to make Anil's heart elated.

Thus the act of persuasion was completed.

THE PACKING STYLES

Almost every person who lives to die in a hard working life has varied opinions on varied topics when talking with a varying number of friends. Also this implies in a family the same packing opinion would be almost influenced by the packer. Here in Anil's family his mother was posted as an eminent packer in front of all other members as the vote on her was in 2:1. Two was given by her dears for packing and one by herself for not packing.

But she was a cunning mother and instead of packing she demanded packing though she was still packing for the unseasonal air trip. First the work was to pack the dress which was an expert field for her. Thus she said them that she would pack them in a disciplined way.

After two hours when the members who elected saw her not packing a single tit-bit of dress to be packed, they demanded to pack all items in a hurry in that day only. It was just noon. She first went near the dress arranging shelf and saw all the things to be packed and just came back and then she asked others to bring the white and black checked dress. When they interfered that they shouldn't pack, she just smiled and produced the piece of ticket pointing them on a single line. Both the lively and laughing faces converted just to hurrying legs and hands. Her husband brought all the fatty foods from the outskirt of the kitchen and served to wife so that time would just not skip.

Last time she remembered how she demanded to bring her son a packet of biscuit from the market which can be just 30 steps in emigration and 30 steps in immigration. But the whole thing transformed from joke work to just cautious work. On the emigrating way first thing to be encountered was a small cockroach which had its pride for keeping its name low in front of Anil.

Thus after avoiding that priding fellow he ran as fast as possible towards the shop. But alas the shop was inviting with a message written in a very bold block letter CLOSED.

He came back to house and asked mother to give his bicycle key to rush to the nearby shops except that as it was just an uninviting source of biscuit. Holding the keys he met with again a priding fellow but this was just a small rat. Standing in a position of saluting Anil he just said 'you fool not knowing how to salute but saluting two legs standing on one hand and doing disco dandia.' The screaming stroked the ear of the mouse so hard that ethanol would have been formed instead of lactic acid. The lungs of that small fellow would have to hear the shout of the alveoli and the arterioles. He then saw another disappointing scene that where cycle was kept was void and that his cycle was just in the repairing shop demanding a good hand's repair.

So he has to walk now 300 paces so as to be successful in bringing a whole packet of biscuit. On the way he encountered a biscuit packet and searched it in hope of some fresh biscuit which would be no more than sufficient amount to take. But inside that packet he saw just Silicon Dioxide with H_2O . He just threw it with so much force that a hammer would lose all his memory power of piercing the nail inside the modern attracting and colored walls.

Though he was successful in bringing the biscuit from shop but when money was demanded from him he searched all the 15 pockets he has brought with him to find not a single penny. He cried at that instance and started his persuading act though it was never completed. He ran back to home and took some money to find that it was not enough and asked for some more. So after a long marathon he completed his biscuit bring mission as he takes all tasks as a mission. But the consequences were not good enough and he dozed till the next day's flight and become the only person to take cold bath in the cooling days. But he was not unsuccessful in attending the flight to Australia.

But this time Anil's mother had already kept a buffer stock of biscuits not from the FCI but from the market 30 paces away earlier. Hence this time Anil was thought that his legs are now spare. But when a rampaging call came from mother all his thought went to the heaven. This time he was to bring a pair of daily use slippers. So he went for slipper mission. Oh! But this time luck favored and became successful in bringing that without any harassing obstacle in between.

But the next was packing all the daily use items and it took nearly so called ½ an hour. Just then it was afternoon and almost nothing was absolutely packed. Thus this time all the members ran to fulfill the wishes of the bag and not to disappoint them on the way. The bag was ready till 8 o' clock in night and all were as if they had just resigned from invisible long extending lengthy marathon!!!

Hence all of them took no short nap and rose just before 2 hours of flight. They all rushed towards the bathroom door and if door would have the escaping power then it would have ran away not knowing where it was running! But Anil's mother was unsuccessful in capturing the bathroom place and that also happened for father. But the late riser and last positioned child of previous trip won the race of daily chores with great easiness.

THE JOURNEY BEGINS

After the hush and fuss of early morning all of them became ready and steady but no go (of course) as the time was not all right and just as it became $\frac{1}{2}$ an hour to flight time they rushed with all their might and took a cab. From here I hope there would be one of the funniest journeys for the family members.

First they searched for a cab not knowing that they all are in a strike mood. Although one of them agreed but demanded a 100 INR to drop them near the aerodrome. This was believably expensive and everyone got into the latest model of India's Independence Day. On the way they experienced one common force other than gravitational force that is the jumping- bumping force. All them though survived mentally but physical was not at all possible in that horrendous situation.

When they reached the aerodrome the flight was on the way to leave and thus they all ran as they were not happy to waste a handsome amount of money from their salary. They met the air hostess on the way and before her reach they escaped into flight and arranged their parcels and themselves. The plane was ready to soar high when they were torturing the ears of fellow passengers by their breathing styles. When Anil would be on a high note his father would upbeat him to another much higher pitch and mother controlling so to rest and thus the competition went on in presence of all. It has no much bad consequence for breather but the opposite for the viewer.

On the flight way they again encountered her (Air hostess) but with a great unpleasant smile. She became anxious and curious of their smiles but subtly asked where were they flying and for which reason. The answer Anil made would enrage everyone- ‘Madam we are high above to Greece but low enough to find someone. Could you help us?’

‘Oh yes. But whom?’

‘ALPHA’ came the sudden reply.

‘What...What alpha? Who is that?’ came an ungentle sound.

‘Sorry madam. You please go carrying your peace momentum’ said a polite voiced father.

After the departure of madam he was so enraged that if there would have a parachute to support Anil’s body then Anil would have been till now flying against the drag. His father scolded him a little and referred him not to speak wasteful reasons to result it in a worst decision.

But his mother responded quickly that for a single question you asked your father to spend money for the last 10 days in Greece. I thought you changed your mind about that question but it would never be possible.

What question? -Asked the father.

‘Sorry, I couldn’t listen you perfectly as I was responding to my mother’s scolding’ replied the shameless son.

‘Don’t you know, that question to ‘find alpha’? In my opinion it was a wrong question, but now he is on the expedition to find who is alpha’ replied an angry mother.

All this was seen by the crew members especially the hostess. When all of them knew that they were in the middle of swampy people they all made themselves silent as such a cello tape was glued to their mouths. All the members were gazing and focusing on them as if for first time they saw a quarrel. The family was feeling totally hurt to the heart after the accident surrounded by the passerby and hostess as the lady cop!

In this way in the whole journey in the aero plane there were a lot of statues though living. If a statue thief would have passed through that heavy flying machine would be rich till reaching the soft looking hard ground if he sees an air flowing market. Otherwise he would also be rich when he reaches ground and invisibly comes near god of hell and sells them. This would be his greatest gain in life after death if the god likes statues and offers him to spare for 2 minutes as he can take some noodles at that moment according to ads!

So in this way all of them reached the beautiful place of Greece and greeted themselves for a happy afternoon wishing not to experience the jumping and bumping force again. Though nearby there was no lodging in sight but who overloads themselves with problem of staying as in modern advanced age the eyes are only to be spared on these things. Anil took his launch pad for knowledge of lodges and there was the great news that network was unavailable. The entire family member became as usual angry not knowing how to stay.

Then came a cab which improved the condition of the family by asking something in Greek language which was a not at all a great relief for the father. And then the network became available and when he asked in Greek his son replied something in Greek also. His parents were stunned and became proud that he knows Greek which would be helping them greatly. But the cab driver nodded his head and drove away singing one of the songs in his worst form of voice which was equally equal to the crass cacophony of a frog.

When he drove away his father scolded in English-‘You fool knowing nothing but only steering the revolving wheel. Son and wife don’t look at me that way I had said I would speak sometimes changing the place of words while talking to Greek people in Greece.’ But politely asked ‘and by the way my son how you communicated in Greek?’

‘Father nothing more I got network available from unavailable and translated what he was conveying, just advanced technology. Be habituated father, it would be vital in survival.’- replied Anil.

But what did you asked and he nodded away?’-asked the father again.

‘Nothing more but only who is alpha?’

The father then ran after him till they saw a beautiful palace like lodge.

VARIETY OF LODGES

What do you expect for a lodge-a room or a home like place to rest and to take a nap? But if the whole things in a lodge is muddled up through shouting. Imagine about it.

When both of them saw that they were standing in front of a palatial building they all without hesitating entered into the arena they found the whole place was empty except the receptionist. They asked and saw that almost 50 rooms empty. But they researched for their female partner who was absent during the father son run. So after some worrying they saw she was carrying three bags and walking with a mild speed of 1 km/hr. She was having two in both hands and one balancing on head but nobody was giving a little money. But as such she saw the two faces staring at her speed she ran to a great extent of 1 km/s!!!

Both of them ran backwards but they were not able to move more than 3 steps. They were almost terrified and their heart came to mouth to see that how a place would just be crowded from one receptionist to 50 peoples in such little time. When Anil's mother bumped against them the entire passenger line was broken as if British force had just tore into Tipu's battling soldiers in 1799 or the storming of Srirangapatnam. But in such a fast way they all assembled together that Anil's family stood at 51!

But after the longest queue the family has ever battled they reached near the reception and at that instant Anil asked –‘Sir’ who is alpha here in Greece?’

The receptionist told-‘Sorry I...’

‘You nasty scoundrel don’t you know what to ask in which place to whom? Listen don’t just you and tell if is available any room here?’ asked the father.

‘Sir, what do you mean?’

Anil said –‘my father somewhat muddles up things just tell me do you know alpha?’

‘In your dictionary I hope there is only one sentence that who is alpha, bring a tape recorder and give it the highest volume and share bit in the public market.’

‘Buy it. I would be grateful to you.’

‘Sir, there is no room presently available as out of fifty all are paid. And I hope your son would be....’

‘Unsuccessful and would returned home crying. I would really send you that picture and share it on social networking services.’

‘Who’s that shouting’ – sound came from a stout fellow. He was really the manager of that glamorous palatial lodge.

‘Sir, Do you know who alpha is?’ – asked the meek looking Anil.

‘Sorry I can’t help you properly because now I wish I am carrying all the bags and my legs are helping them to carry them.’ The father said without an angry face as he was almost out of the arena that was followed by Anil’s mother. Both of them were terrified and Anil gaining courage and inspiration from his parents ran after them till all of them were out in the open road.

Then they went to the adjacent lodge and both the guards saluted the father-son pair as they knew what would be the consequences of not saluting and would hear some latest versions of English language. Though they entered but they were unsuccessful. This was how it went on-

‘Do you know who is alpha? And please tell me rapidly.’ – asked Anil.

‘Again that alpha song, sorry small man I am unable to hear that twice and for your kind information I would be grateful that you all don’t shout. Otherwise you wouldn’t be able to shout. Verify by looking the person coming down.’ - Replied the receptionist. He combed somewhat his hair and wore his cap and got to a saluting pose.

‘Who is that healthy looking but adipose lined fellow?’ whispered Anil’s father.

‘Our manager’ keeping his tone as low as possible.

‘What! Our freezer which is so fat and angry’ –shouted a surprised father turning back facing the receptionist.

And then the manager came behind the father. The receptionist moved his index finger around his neck to symbolize death and suddenly his family joined the receptionist. The father turned back and without looking properly and showed the sign to manager asking what he meant by that. But as he looked at the dimensions he was astonished and his total buccal cavity came out. He then joined his family behind the receptionist and took the luggage and ran away.

‘Are you totally insane or you lost your memory or there is brain hemorrhage.’

‘Wait let’s find another one. But who knew that all managers are bully and bulky.’

At last they found a dwelling place but there also the first question to the manager and receptionist as they were together standing was ‘Who is alpha?’

But unable to answer the receptionist said that he don’t know any one as alpha but he said –‘don’t meddle with my mind. If you want a room then there is one i.e. room you can see there Room no. 1.

ROOM NUMBER 1

Many would be delighted to live in the room no. 1 as all the furniture was shining lustroously with a brown cover. The proverb cleanliness is next to godliness and health is wealth was clearly depicted in all those furnitures. The family members after washing and taking a sleep under the cold water they felt that something was missing which was the watch of Anil who started complaining that this was the fault of his parents. But they didn't agree and the investigation continued. The investigation was of a different way in which famous detectives would never agree to continue.

The investigation started from the head to foot of Anil by his parents and first searching his hairs!

‘Why are you searching me because if I had kept it inside my body or I have chewed it to make a non-delicious chyme then I would have told you that very impossible problem’ – regarded Anil.

‘Investigation means investigation. You are bound to the law of no complain otherwise an automatic Public Interest Litigation would be sent to me by me.’ –father said.

‘Like the starting would be – To me,

Dear me,

My son is not obeying my own law of investigation.

Strict steps should be taken against him by me.

Thanking me.

Yours truly

Me'

The search continued and as one step of father goes forward one quarreling sentence comes from Anil's mouth which is followed by the latter. And the process went on. The shelves and the pockets of the room and dress respectively were thoroughly invigilated. But they didn't get success.

Earlier I had said all the furniture were shining brown and the watch was almost that brown and now you may be thinking that the watch was camouflaged in the sofas but it was wrong and frustrated they all thumped into three different sofas and all the lustrous brown shine was added on their respiratory tract and the room changed from yellow to brown. They all survived to protect their eyes but the pants and shirt were not at all survived and from checked figures they turned to deep colored brown!!!

This example correctly helped Herbert Spencer to prove his theory of SURVIVAL OF FITTEST during that non completed investigation in which eyes survived and pants and shirts had to bow down their head. They all were forced to visit the washroom to wash their faces and hair and different body which were unprotected during the sofa splash. During the repeated bath the parents heard a shout from Anil and saw that he was showing the latrine which was no less bent than a human body. They all gazed and decided how to protect the sinking - floating thing but without any magic power it was almost not possible. The watch of Anil was there!

'Why you didn't get any other place to wash your watch and dipped it inside the white tub and then scolding us.' – said an angry father.

'Why would I wash it in that thing and I came here with the hope of finding alpha not washing watches in latrines.' - replied a confident Anil.

‘Okay wash yourself and survive without the watch and let us wash ourselves’- Said the mother.

After the entire family member was re-bathed and ready another thing walked away from them throwing their trusted values. This time it was the watch of Anil’s father!

‘Now you have also to survive without the watch.’ –Said Anil and started giggling and around his father increasing the temperature and wrath of his father. He thought that Room number 1 was dirty because no one was living and here all the things disappear mysteriously and hence an awkward thought came to mind that one time in stay they would also vanish into thin air or would be found floating shrank in latrine!

Now his father thought really it was his time to regret but suddenly someone came to their room and said that he got two watches and showed it. It was of Anil and his father.

‘From where did you have it?’ –Asked the father who saw that the person was wearing polythene in hand and asked Anil’s father asked for that also.

‘Sir I am a cleaner and I got it together in the...’

‘Thank you and please throw that into the corner.’ –Said father understanding that it had fallen into the same latrine while flushing his son’s watch. He remembered that at that time he was just holding it. He was colored deeply when he saw his son becoming happy.

‘But sir what is the proof that it is yours.’

After thinking a little bit he gave the details of the watches from the place he was standing and Anil took part in it also to regain the property. So after regaining property Anil thought it was his chance and asked his good name.

‘I am here known as John.’ –said the cleaner

His father was surprised to see Anil was not asking his old question about alpha.

‘Oh how nice name you have. Can you tell me who is alpha here?’

‘I thought that you have managed yourself about alpha and resigned about it but this is what we tell the tail of a dog can’t be straightened. You and your holiday homework, don’t you believe that the question is incomplete.’

‘Sir but I know where your son can find alpha but tell me your good name first.’ – interfered John.

‘My name is Anil and please hurry and father and mother become ready. I am almost touching the head of success.’

‘It is in the third floor of PQ/45 in the street after five streets of this. It is a....’

‘Thank you John brother and if I will succeed then I will show you that photo’ and he ran away.

But his father did some talking about it to John and laughed heartily but John didn’t see any humor in it. And so Anil’s father and mother rushed to Anil.

THE FIRST SEARCH

To visit one place a cab or a vehicle or our own feet are needed but if everyone by chance disagrees. The father and mother when rushed to Anil they saw all the people laughing all around a statue which had just taken birth before 5 minutes. They saw Anil was sitting in a yoga posture and was chanting Om few times and which maddened the head of their parents.

‘Are you mad? Okay, you become a yogi teacher and I will dearly help you to open up a yoga class in Greece itself.’- laughed the father

‘Father...’

‘If you don’t like then I would just book you an icy stone on the 8840 m at Mt. Everest at nearly the peak. I would also facilitate you to sit on a torn mat and your invisible students on some favourable ice packs. If you will feel hurt and then don’t call me and add ice packs on the place where you feel hurt.’ Laughed father

‘I would whole-heartedly support you my dear.’-Laughed Anil’s mother joining Anil’s father.

Dear parents, I am praying god for a cab and alpha. I am not opening also a yoga class. But if you are interested then I can open on my pocket money for you and you have to pay an amount of 500 INR and this is called getting more than invested’- Anil started laughing.

‘But what the hell are you praying for a cab?’-asked the father.

‘Because they all are just nodding their head and going away.’

‘But why?’-again the father enquired.

‘Because I just asked them if they know someone alpha in the third floor of PQ/45 in the street after five streets of this.’

‘Again that alpha. Okay I am preparing a cab for you and you stop that yoga practice.’

‘Why should I stop while there is an absolute need of it in both of you back in house?’- Anil replied jokingly.

His parents without replying called for a cab and then successfully went to their destiny. On the way Anil’s father was laughing little and then sitting sad. Anil felt a bad temperature around him as he never saw his father smiling while helping him and also moreover called for a cab. Though there was the fault of Anil in not understanding completely about that building. On the way the cab driver asked for the place why they are visiting and before anyone could reply

Anil replied-‘Oh! To visit Mr. or Mrs. Alpha as I don’t know him or her.’

The cab driver said that he had never seen Mr. or Mrs. Before alpha then also added it was the correct place to visit alpha. This made Anil happier and his father happier than his son. At the instance they reached that place Anil said that this cab driver is a fool who doesn’t knows about the Greece. But the cab driver on his part said that this is the address and demanded money. ‘What money you don’t know anything and demanding money. You fool driver mad driver there is no fool describing words for this driver. And you listen carefully that try to keep a Google map in front of your cab and please don’t demand money or otherwise I will kick you out of your cab.’ –Anil became angrier and as you all know every action has an equal and opposite reaction but here this was almost not violated as the cab driver was of Mother Teresa category though not fully.

‘You nasty child making reasons to not give a single penny and who will now fill my cab’s tank?’-The cab driver said losing almost his temper.

‘What do you mean? I would vomit to fill it.’ Anil shadowed the angry words of the driver.

‘Take just you money and live him almost alone.’-His father said counting money.

‘What hard and rough English you are speaking. Teach this and this would truly help him to metaphor his yoga classes to comedy class where students and their relatives would visit to recreate them.’

The cab driver counting the money thrice went back to his seat and drove away.

Then the father started laughing holding his stomach with both hands.

‘Father why you gave money though he insulted you and why are you happy in the entire route.’- asked Anil and doubted on his father.

‘How you gave him money. He would just drop us in library and would go away. If it would be a market then it would have been okay.’ Mother replied changing his side.

‘I knew it already from John that he was leading us to library because he thought it was there where we can find your incomplete problem complete and moreover your thing that of market, imagine this as the market stocks of books. And I was happy because I can enjoy your faces and also spend some moments with books having the Greek letter alpha.’- replied the father controlling his smile.

‘You double profited father. I should have doubted you when you stayed back with John for some time and talked. I must have asked you for what reasons you stayed there.’- Anil replied frustrated.

His father just trying not to listen Anil went inside the library and Anil got an idea to take him back to that lodge. As soon all of them entered the library and Anil started shouting Alpha all around and when the librarian asked why he shouted, he replied that whenever something is there and you can't find it then shout for it. As I was searching for a person named alpha and my father carried me here so you can understand.

‘You fool get away.’ –shouted the librarian.

‘Shhhhh. Sorry sir but this would break the silence.’ And Anil walked putting his hand on lower part of abdomen as if he has participated in cat's walk.

‘Father this is called a son is 10 times intelligent than father.’

‘Let's go back to the dirty room and clean that room and sleep that room. Oh, sorry to sleep in that room.’ Anil's father replied felling again defeated.

THE RETURN TRIP

As such all of them stepped out of the library they saw a single cab waiting for them. They enquired about the cab and that said waiting for someone who would need a seat to resign from here to accept the other one. Thus all of them thoroughly agreed about taking that cab but when he asked the place none of them then could remember the lodge's name.

‘Sir, could you help me in finding alpha.’- asked Anil hopefully.

‘What? You are coming out of one of the largest library and asking for alpha. Better you visit inside the library and come to know about alpha. And this time don't shout as you had done earlier because when you had shouted the whole road became silent. We all felt a terrifying lion had not eaten digestive chocolates and came here searching for mouse. They asked me if I had decorated you to here to beat your vocal cords.’- said the driver.

‘Have you gone mad? We are here going down the memory lane to go to lodge and you are on your alpha mission.’- replied the mother.

‘Okay I remember it is some Greek...’- thought the father.

‘Oh! I know it is after five streets of this.’- said the driver.

‘Yes’

‘Correct’

‘Yeah’-Anil joined his parents.

‘Okay you will just reach in 10 minutes.’- said the driver thinking it as an easy task.

Do you remember the bumping and jumping force they had faced during their trip? Here in this cab they would experience two more forces. One of them is the bouncing force and one you try. The vehicle started and as they had travelled not less than one minute one can find three towers over the heads of them all had bounced over the seat for 10 times already!

Later when they fought against it and almost made themselves dead over that spring attached seat the vehicle jerked and all of them made their towers though not visible more long by attaching theirs with others. And suddenly that cab became statue and some gas started coming out of the car. Though after some repair it went on but after sometime it again stopped and when this continued for five more times-

‘What have you said it would take only and only 10 minutes but I think you mis-spelt the word hour with the minute. And by the way what happened has to jerking your wheeler four?’-asked the father.

‘Sir nothing, but I think it wants to smoke on the road.’-replied the driver and opened the engine cover and saw that it was really smoking because a lot of cigarettes’ packet was there.

‘I will call the cop you are smoking and saying to your cab and if you are not smoking then is your cab a living one. You are just hiding it.’-said the mother.

But Alas! There was not a single cop there but another cab came to see that and the driver said-‘Waiting for cab still take mine to your lodge’ and started laughing. They all without noticing the driver of both the cabs went into the second cab.

‘What about my money? Who will pay that?’ –shouted the driver in vain.

‘I am intelligent so not that I pay you money to give cigarettes to your mouth and engine of cab and then to smoking say the cab is. Don’t understand then also better if understand then take my words as invisible money’ said the father and they all went and adjusted in the second one.

They all felt a similar smell like the morning cab and as such they saw the face of the driver they all shouted but pleaded to take them to their lodge and as I had said that he was of Mother Teresa category then he helped them. But on the way they saw a stringent of black clouds becoming angry and following them to attack when they are removed from their limits and the limit was when they would get fatter!!!

On the way the black clouds started accumulating a lot of water vapour they can and when they got out of their limits they didn't obeyed any rule of showing pity and crashed against the cab which made the entire family bath thrice in the day. But the driver was not spared too. The assault was only on them though none of them knew what they all had done against those black clouds in the previous births!!!

All of them tried their luck to close all the windows but Anil got drenched till they reached their lodge because there was not at all any glass in the front seat!

'Would you go up or I would force you.' Anil started shouting and the window hesitated as he didn't want to increase his affinity towards god and there at that situation started a wet and swampy struggle between that resisting window pane and alpha searcher.

At last that struggle ended with the window pane as victorious and Anil as the loser. This time Anil's father paid the money and they all rushed inside the lodge. Anil was feeling as if he was the Titanic and he had totally been drenched in the water but hopefully not a single passenger was there on his trip.

Seeing this condition of Anil's father said- 'But a father is ten times luckier than his son.' He signed on a victorious note which made Anil feel more and more miserable in that situation. But another surprise was waiting them that they heard a lot of voice from their room and as such they stared into their room they were all spellbound and they heard a voice-

‘Welcome! You are also drenched. Come on and join us. This is a spare one.’

THE SOGGY VISIT

‘What do you mean this is a spare one? We have booked this room for our stay and you say this is a spare one.’ said his mother.

‘Yes, do think you this is a dharamsala? Sorry. You all can’t this understand Oh! What we calling this ...’-said the father somewhat confusing his audience.

‘What father they are thinking this is a community old people home?’ asked Anil.

‘No they said that this is a spare one.’ All of them started pointing towards someone. This all added somewhat pure ghee to the father’s anger. At last they stopped pointing and a person was pointed by all.

The father roared – ‘John, John.’

All the hotel members and the manager rushed to that spot to be a spectator or a participant. Thus when he saw such a large crowd added to his wrath he shouted- ‘Are you all Johns. John 1, (pointing to manager) and John 2, (pointing to the receptionist), John 3, John 4 etc. Where is real John?’

‘Sorry sir, he went back to home early because he was somewhat feeling ill.’ Replied the receptionist politely.

‘And who allowed all these soggy come - together here?’ asked Anil.

‘Sir we all thought that there was no one in your room and thus we all helped these people and as now there is no rain outside you all can go out.’

‘But should why go out we?’ demanded the father.

‘No not your family but others.’ Replied the receptionist.

Thus after some time the room was deserted from an overcrowded city and they all left a stormy though becoming quiet land giving what somewhat unnecessary rain. When he saw all the room was feeling cool and saw that a super cyclone and flood combined together had visited as the whole place and floor was dancing on the wet surface.

The entire family was now worried as they have to face a wet and soggy night instead of a dry mattress. They didn't hope of drying the mattress in a few minutes and either they have no power to fresh themselves as they had already bath three times that day. So they put on their night dresses and two mattresses which they had kept as a buffer stock for this situation!!!

In the night they all went to take a sleep so early without even fulfilling their digesting machine's will up to a great extent. After a few hours Anil started dreaming of a hockey match which was a rare factor in his dream but not impossible and the scene of the bed changed to a great extent. During their sleep everyone was lying straightly but later on it was seen that Anil laid his legs on his father and his mother went to sleep down closing her eyes and making a sound. But her sleep was not broken. If there would have been a sleep family sleep marathon then Anil's family was sure of taking that trophy and Anil single handedly can change the match!!!

During the hockey dream of Anil there was a match between Team India and Team Japan. He was very much excited that he washed his eyes three times before going to chairs of the green patch with some white markings. When they reached there a cop was checking the dress of all the spectators. Later on when it was Anil's turn after the inspection of his parents a funny incident happened. The cop got the pocket of Anil filled with something and thus he demanded that thing and Anil showed it to that very cop.

‘Why are you keeping such a thick handkerchief?’ asked the cop and at that very moment Anil got a sneeze and put on the handkerchief on his mouth.

Then he replied-‘To protect your nostrils from the disastrous effects of the following bacteria.’

The cop was then forced to allow Anil. The match after the national anthem was sung started. The commentary box was overcrowded but not a single word was uttered. The first quarter went without any success for any team. But second was something of the courage and after a courageous battle of either stick a goal was conceded by the Team Japan. And in gap of five minutes another was scored by Team India. Then the break followed in which Anil went to attend his nature’s call. But during his return to seat he was confused which was his seat as he saw father was not there. But after some successful searches he got and as he sat he again rose up seeing that India snatched away another one.

Then Anil’s father said – ‘It is the B Team of Japan!’

And when Team Japan conceded another one in the same quarter then Anil inspired by his father’s sentence said that –‘It is the D Team or any worst category team they have.’

And the quarter ended on a sad note for Japan and Anil’s father followed the footsteps of Anil to the washroom. When he returned Anil said him that Japan scored four equalizers against their expectations in just 1/12th of an hour and then father looked at the scoreboard and again at Anil and said-‘That is why the Team India has scored 4 goals and Team Japan 0 goals.’

And the match ended 4-0 in favour of India. When they were going back to their house Anil heard someone saying that it would be better if hockey players would play cricket because they would hit once and then run after the ball to hit twice or thrice to score six and six added to twelve!!!

Anil woke up suddenly laughing and saw that it was only 4 in the morning coinciding to the number of goals scored by Team India who had won the dream paradise hockey match. He again took his comfortable place to rest till six in the early morning!!!

EARLY MORNING AND BREAKFAST

The next day at six in the early morning and all the water vapors have donated their lives to the mattresses which covered the sleeping sheet which covered the bed which covered the wooden frame with some additional designs on it. Thus like water transports in plant to the leaves here the same had happened for the non living or the abiotic structure and the water without any helping hand had transported themselves to the dresses of Anil's family!!!

When Anil's father woke up he started screaming aloud but not so much to wake up the other persons as they were only living in the ground floor.

He shouted and screamed though sleepily –‘Oh my goodness! First Anil's watch then, my watch and then myself. My dear and dearest help me. I am drowning in the latrine. Come on you sleepy ones and help me get out. I am somewhat stuck in the base and I am somewhat a wading heron. ’

He was really stuck between the legs of Anil and the water transport system had already drenched his total surface area in the nap. Both Anil and his mother woke up with a sudden jerk to saw Anil's father was shouting and when Anil realized the situation he simply took his legs away and laughed but in a worried manner said- ‘Father really you are fit for consumption of the white mouth.’

‘Oh thank god at least you all helped me to come out and what that stopper was if I would really know then I would blast with whatever I will see at that time.’-said Anil's father taking a deep breath.

All of them became fresh in just one hour and that horrible thought of father haunted his mind how he went to latrine to drown himself. This was explained by his son who was laughing more than clearing the concepts and it took him total 10 minutes to say two to three lines. And whenever he was laughing his father was creating a resistance for his son so as not to laugh but he was not able to resist his own and what he will resist his son!!!

When after their bath Anil went to bathroom he saw that there was no soap in the stand and called his parents to listen how soap vanished into thin air and his father asked him to search it in the latrine and the they got a mixer of bitter and sweet in their taste buds of brain. So somehow they made themselves sure that there is another soap in the rack and waited for the call of the stomach.

But for the first time they were not called by the stomach and hence they waited till eight in morning to fulfill the wishes of the stomach. Thus after a long wait they at last locked their room and searched the map for canteen in the lodge and they saw that it was in the fifth floor and they felt frustrated to see that about 50 steps are waiting for them before food is to be mixed with ptyalin or the juice secreted by salivary glands. Thus they went to the lift and saw that it was in the tenth floor and thus they decided it would be good to walk on steps. And after a whole 30 minutes they reached that floor.

This was possible because of the workers who were bringing new mattresses for the people who were living in different floors. Once they reached the fourth floor but the steps were not so wide to accommodate the three of them and the worker bringing two mattresses with him. Thus Anil's family walked down the steps to the first floor and wait till all of the mattresses had left themselves from the Anil's family. They again started their expedition to the stomach filling areas hoping the food was not finished and again they had to crash against their ill fate and they again saw another worker bringing some mattress and they came down again to first floor. But in the third expedition when they saw another fellow they said him to go back and when he refused they all carried mattresses, one by father and one by Anil and his mother to the fifth floor!!!

And at last there eyes could glance the bold letters of canteen and rushed there and took their berth. The waiter asked about the food and the first question to him was by Anil.

‘Do you know alpha.’

‘No sir there is no such name of food available here and please ask for some food having meaning.’

‘What you know only bringing food and serving them and for that you get a lot of money imagining yourself as VBF or Very Busy Fellow’. Anil replied in an angry mood.

‘You please some foods bring at least some eatable one and the insects not. Bring the food listed vegetarian as under your category.’ Replied the father to leave that waiter a bit confused and correcting the words he said that it is okay.

When Anil went to wash his hands he saw the cook and asked if he knows alpha or not and as the answer came as a straight no then Anil thundered-‘You only know to remove the lid and put food and then again put the lid and for that you get a lot of money imagining yourself as VBF or Very Busy Fellow’.

Anil’s father rushed to handle the matter before it worsens- ‘You only know to ask what is alpha and then shout.’

Anil feeling somewhat insulted washed his hands and rushed to take his berth and when the waiter brought food he said that it was as per orders and when asked about the name of the food item he said it insect fry mix. And his father became angry that he can’t understand simple English and supporting his son said him the dialogue that was previously ringing in the waiter’s mind.

Anil's mother at last made the waiter to understand the food and the modern transformations of Anil's father. And when they all satisfied their need they saw it was nine in the morning but the sun was like four in the morning!!!

They all rushed to their room to change dress and continue their Greece visit and alpha search and became ready in just five minutes to attend the cab early!!!

THE BOATING EXPEDITION

As they rushed to the outside of the lodge they saw of noise and when they indulged their heads and neck in the crowd they heard a large sound that startled them. All the people were sent to coma and took some five minutes to revive from that hollow and undesired life. They all were looking at the top as if the US force had just made their place an unsuitable one back in 1945 in Hiroshima and Nagasaki but they were much more terrified.

Oh! I forgot to tell about the crowd that was due to insufficient amount of supply of one of the modern basic need that had derived itself in the category in the 20th century i.e. electricity. Now the situation was much more woeful as the crowd was more disheartened due to the short circuit and somewhat blasting of the tower that supplied the electricity!!!

But Anil and his family took a favourable position and laughed on the ill fate of the crowd and blasted up from there in the search of a cab. They were somehow lucky to get a cab within ten paces and settled the matter with the driver to the boating area. This time the cab was well cleaned and they didn't experience some of the different forces they had already experienced other than the gravitational force. Though the length was a longer one but the vehicle handshaking with the air rushed to the spot and after the driver was paid money they all ran to that area.

But they found three spots for booking a boat but with a minimum guarantee of five, ten, and fifteen peoples and thus decided to take a shortcut but that was not the easiest cut to escape. They stood accompanying the five persons but without knowing their future. They stood with the person who was ahead of them and after talking for half an hour they saw that their number has advanced to three living their footsteps in five!!!

They twisted their heads to visualize the frontal lobe situation but standing in the occipital lobe it was not like a child's play. They saw persons who were almost two or at least three times of the volume of atmosphere covering than Anil and he is not also a thin one. So they almost bent their head to the greatest extent and as such they saw the situation they crashed themselves helping their teeth to eat some soil to make them soiled!!!

They saw a man who was not young enough to be associated with the soldier stage of the Shakespearean classification of seven stages but he was old enough to be in the age around 70 years and thus when he was writing a single letter his hands were trembling allowing him to take sufficient amount of time and sometimes he was sleepy which was unfavorable for the customers. Anil's family asked the situation and he said that his son had just gone for taking breakfast and thus had not come from one hour thus he was deputed to give us tickets for boating.

So as such they came to take a ticket and that old fellow was feeling sleepy and then writing so when Anil's father name was registered he wrote one letter on the space provided and some others in different parts of the space taken by ticket and when they gave money one rupee slipped from father's hand and the old fellow sprang upon Anil's father and shouted as if he was just given an electric shock. And after giving the slipped money he again sprang upon Anil's father seeing his son coming!!!

Thus after this terrible combat Anil's family at last took a green shining boat and started their boating expedition. They first drove for about five minutes after which their vehicle stopped cutting the water. They searched for the problem and started it for three times after which it worked. On the way Anil continued his mission but was all total unsuccessful and asked five families if they knew alpha but the answer was a straight shrug and after that he didn't turned his head towards any passenger though he knew that would harm his search.

After sometime father exchanged his brain straining position to the restful one with his spouse and searched for the water bottle and was successful in finding the bottle. But when he tried to open the sealed one he was annoyed and when he was seen by his son his son started laughing and continuously when Anil's father was twisting it was all in vain.

So Anil tried himself but he was also faced by the same treatment which he had just given to his father. This shows as you sow so you reap. They both tried to open but their power was not at all helping them. This all added water to them which was not fit for drinking. So when Anil's mother asked the bottle to drink they gave saying- 'Drink, Drink as much you can' and laughed and were unable to open their eyes but their laugh was returned to them in a devilish one and followed by a simple one.

They saw that she was enjoying bit by bit of the droplets falling on her soft mouth. They were surprised to see and begged for a drink and the end of their first half journey and Anil's mother taught them that they were all reversing the opening matter!!!

And during their return trip in the boat Anil's father exchanged his place with his spouse again and was terrified at a black substance under the water which was flowing attached to their green place. He started adding some fire to the speed of the boat which was thoroughly resisted by Anil. He thought that the animal who always equaled the speed of the boat would be the perfect one to answer his question.

'Tell me who is alpha? Please.'

‘Again you started your recording. You just sit straight and look forward. I am driving you all to reach the safest land and you are asking about that incorrect question- Find alpha?’ – Anil’s father said with the mixer of some request and anger.

‘Father I can’t be straighter than this.’

Anil’s father, without listening the whole sentence of Anil rushed to the starting point and took a deep breath but sprang out of the boat. But he was shocked by hearing ‘Thanks’. He saw that one family who was ahead of them took that black thing and Anil screamed that it was a bed sheet only!!!

‘Why carried you a nasty sheet bed in this fine day?’ – angered Anil’s father.

‘We thought that we can protect ourselves from the rain if it will be there’, said the head of their family feeling a little sorry for Anil and his family.

Anil then recited a few lines and asked to excuse him if they felt hurt and they all departed. The lines were-

‘You somehow are mad

Though I feel this telling you would definitely be sad,

You brought a bed sheet dry

Though it was perfect to dry hay in this day.

You are so foolish

You are just like a black shoe polish,

That adds some black

On the boat not so dark.

Please me don’t mind

Cause you are not so blind,

You thought of some rain

And brought sheet to protect you from pain!!!'

THE NIGHT WITHOUT LIGHT

After the boating expedition Anil finished his second search in the boating area asking all the fellows till five families in the sight but without any success. He also asked the bed sheet about alpha but what an abiotic fellow can answer about such question whereas his counterparts can't suggest about it. So after the failure of second search and becoming a poet after the thriller speed is a typical fact but Anil becoming a poet at an instant is an abnormal fact!!!

So totally disheartened not to spend the entire amount in the pocket heartily Anil's family searched for a cab which was just waiting for a passenger. Thus they all took that one to their lodge and were able to reach their destiny without any added force and thus they were happy enough to sleep in their bed but when they reached they were shocked to see that the morning happiness was till now not changed to more happiness.

The light had not struck the filaments of glowing beauties which show the direction. So they suffered a moral fight that they had laughed and now after sunset they would cry. So they rested their backs against the mattresses but the mattresses was not able to support the secretions of sweat glands in that period and hence water transport system worked to take the sweat down to the wooden frame!!!

After sometime their sadness was clearly marked when the sun started to fade away from horizon taking away their smiles and thus they took out their torch in between so as not to suffer much till the dinner is ready. But darkness can deny any light with the exception of sunlight because at that moment darkness can't deny it. Thus after sometime darkness grew more and more and Anil's father thought that why this darkness is not engulfed by the white latrine like it engulfs everything!!!

So Anil's family stayed in that pale and dark room without any success. They hoped to go out but their legs resisted them not to go street dark and Anil's father went to receptionist to ask about generator but he straightly refused that this blasting and fading of light is a rare circumstance and so we have no such back-up.

Disheartened and feeling a little bit sleepy he came to the bed and dumped himself without knowing that he was sleeping on the sofa which was till now not changed his color and the shirt camouflaged itself to the same background. Anil was also feeling to go to bathroom but he had a fear like father that he would be engulfed by the latrine!!!

All this time Anil's mother told a story to Anil which went on like this-

Once there was a Brahmin who always laughed when he sees a child and always cries when...

Anil's mother took a long yawn so as to stimulate the brain to continue the story in the brightness of the darkness

So once there was a Brahmin who was always laughed when he sees a child and always cries when...

Anil's mother took another yawn.

'Please mother, tell me the story or I will ask you question.'

Taking a yawn -'Yes I am telling and so once there was a Brahmin who always laughed when he sees a child and always cries when he sees an old fellow' which at last continued to another Guinness world book record yawn lasting completely one minute as Anil counted till 60 in that period!!!

'Okay where I was?'

'In the same old fellow.'

‘So once there was a Brahmin who always laughed when he sees a child and always cries when he sees an old fellow and thus lived in the hut.’ This hut word became so lengthy that this should be taken into the notice of Guinness world book record.

‘Okay so once there was a Brahmin who always laughed when he sees a child and always cries when he sees an old fellow and thus lived in the hut. Once he came out to buy some fruit and vegetables for his wife. On the way’ this way word also followed the same footsteps of hut word and can also be brought into the notice of Guinness world book record.

‘So once there was a Brahmin who was always laughs when he sees a child and always cries when he sees an old fellow and thus lived in the hut. Once he came out to buy some fruit and vegetables for his wife. On the way he saw a child walking with his grand fathers both maternal and paternal. So here my question is how he should react?’

‘He would simply laugh and cry alternatively’ Anil’s father jumped after a nap of one hour to answer with laughter. This made Anil and the narrator to laugh and their sleepiness walked away at that instant.

Then Anil took his chance and asked a question to his parents- ‘Tell me where the first plane was flown? Wait I remember the options-a) US b) UK and c) Germany.’

After a few moments of thinking Anil’s parents chose option a) US.

Anil started thinking a little moment and then said –‘The first plane was flown in (looking at his parents) in the air.’ And started laughing which induced a laughing motion in Anil’s parents.

Then Anil’s father showed his talent of telling a joke - ‘Once a guest was coming to his friend’s house and there was nothing to cook except dal (dried pulse) so his wife complained that and he explained one idea. When guest will come then you would rush to the kitchen then put three utensils over each stove. Two should be empty third should be filled by dal. After sometime you will fall one empty vessel down and when I would ask what fell down you should say that mix veg. Again you should do same thing and when I would ask then you should say rice then I should say to bring dal only.'

Anil's father took a deep breath and then said-'Guests came to the house. His wife rushed to kitchen. After sometime a utensil fell down and my friend asked what fell down? His wife said- 'Oh! My god dal sank them into sink (basin)!!!' and all them laughed and this laughing power created so much energy that the electricity came and they were able to go to the canteen and fulfill their abdominal wishes and come back to take a sleep on the mattresses under some coolness.

THE NIGHT PLAN

After the dinner Anil's father and mother went to sleep but Anil was so cruel to his eyes that he didn't slept for few moments and searched for the places to be visited and how to ask there saving himself from his father. So two places had been visited that are library and lake but those were totally unsuccessful starting from the lodge to the destiny. He was totally worried how he can't complete the mathematics homework and dipped his mind between the realities of feeling sad. So he took out his Greece map which he had brought during coming from boating on the way.

On that map every place of the street was there but the lodge they were staying was not there so he thought that this was an illusion and ghastly place. He simply like a cat without disturbing his parents' snoring went out as it was only nine in the night and asked about the building to the nearby people. He had also a fear of leaving his parents. Hence, he asked to the passer-bys about this building and got some creepy feeling in the mind.

They all said that the building was made three years ago and Anil thought how in three years it can't occupy a place in the paper and searched the map carefully and found that the mp was made four years ago!!!

He then really got the satisfaction about the lodge and started doing his planning that where to visit and where not in remaining days. So he crossed the visited place from the map and assuming the lodge's place in the four year old paper. He then got some choices and then he started from museum then suddenly he ducked looking at his father that he was going to kick him out in sleep because sometimes his father kicks someone and fix someone in bed during his sleep. In the last night he had fixed Anil to the bed and thus they all were safe.

But now the matter was not at all well. So Anil took his place in the sofa which was unclean and when he remembered he sprang up from sofa like a radical shoots out from the cotyledon!!!

So he was forced to take the ducking place on the soft layer and was thoroughly disturbed to think between the leg attacks which can damage someone's head and can along with throw into the hospital or any doctor's chamber to be treated!!!

But he thought to leave his planning and when he went to sleep the attack was stopped and he again went to work as he was not much sleepy. But as soon as he forwarded his mind to the place next to museum another ferocious attack came to his neck. And to protect his body he ducked but fell down. He again rose up to think about next visiting stations but a huge right punch came almost crashing Anil's nose!!!

So thoroughly unhappy with father's actions he sat down to take some brain into the map but at that time his father fell down attacking the air and Anil was going to become flat and to be attached with the floor with adhesive force of floor. But Anil ducked and rolled away in time before his father's two feet distance covering!!!

After this crash Anil's father woke up and saw Anil sitting in front of him and asked him to sleep so he was forced to sleep but took a torch with him so he would not to be worried when his parents sleep peacefully. His father asked about it and he said one word which resulted in sleeping of Anil's father and the word is Latrine (many have you of guessed also- in Anil's father's language). When he saw they were again snoring he took out the torch and searched the map and did all the necessary cutting and ticking. But no one can be protected from the style of nature attracting sleep.

He went out to keep the torch and then sleep but on the way he saw the latrine door was open and closed it and then no one knows what happened and he took the paper into the sofa (not to latrine) and slept very easily keeping the torch with him and paper on sofa!!!

He slept in the bed for the whole night and woke up to see that his parents were already ready to go out for breakfast.

‘Sleep sleep’

‘Close eyes and snore’

‘What is the time?’

‘Almost seven fifty nine. Don’t worry we will leave you and go to eat and then to museum and it goes to strike eight. Ho –oh and you attach your head to the pillow’-said Anil’s father enjoying the striking of clock.

‘Museum oh yes wait I am coming out in five minutes’ and got out whole ten minutes late at quarter past eight!!!

So they all became ready and went out for dinner but saw that the steps were crowded and took the lift to go up and take the dinner but the lift was not there but came little bit earlier than previous day. They went to the fifth floor to eat and this time Anil and his mother ordered without allowing Anil’s father to say something and they got the right food they had ordered and the waiter took his chance to say ‘This is called ordering’ pointing to Anil’s father and Anil’s father added –‘to the waiter’.

After their breakfast they waited for five minutes for the lift and took the lift to ground floor but the electricity which had come due to their laughing energy and went away and all of them got stuck in the lift just between the first and second floor.

‘What? We would spend the daylight in the darkness and hotness of the grey coloured worst ever looking lift which delays in doing everything and also in taking passengers also five floors!!!’ – shouted Anil.

‘No one is here to listen you except the metal parts which can’t convey it far off distances’ said Anil’s mother logically.

And thus their museum visit was done in just six minutes almost!!!

A DAY IN LIFT OR LIGHT?

Anil started cursing himself that why he woke up so early to get stuck in the lift and in a position where a bee would not be able to suck nectar from the flowers. They waited for about ten minutes but patience has its own limit so they thought idea of getting out and the first idea they got was to use safety pins. They took out safety pins which would be now somewhat danger pins. They pierced it into the metal door and then tried to open. But how to pierce such a small thing so they got totally excited not to try that but that was one of the options available.

Anil took the pin and then forced it into the very thin hole of the lift and was successful then he tried to revolve it so as create some space and such he revolved the pin got struck and when he tried to take that out the result was 1-0 in favour of the pin and Anil donated his head to the metal blocks and wounded!!!

Then his father got angry of the door and took another pin and forced that into the door but he lost at that instance and the pin deflected itself from the pathway and was attracted towards Anil and his father as the distance was small but their mass was very large. The gravitational force pulled that towards Anil's father and he ducked but poor sitting Anil just wounded from battle got another fight to be ready for him and all the ducking practice he had done in the night was kind to him and the pin got stuck just leaving 1 cm from his left pinna.

Then mother tried her chance and took his smooth and soft hand and followed the principle of doing peace and opening the door. She got near the door and smoothly rubbed it so as to open it.

‘Are you opening it or doing massage on it?’- Asked a tensed father.

‘Mother it would be well if you would rub the defeated fellow’s head than the victorious one’-added Anil.

‘Oh! Can’t you all be silent I am tried to connect with the molecules of the door and urge their nucleus to free themselves and help us to get out.’ – Mother protected herself.

‘By doing black magic’ and Anil showed some tricks (though they did not helped to open the metal)door chanting some verses that would have just taken birth at that instance from Anil’s mouth and mind and would not have acquired their numbers in any variety of book except Anil’s mind.

As the time passed Anil and his father complained that she was not able to do any sort of opening things and Anil’s father remembered that he had another way to open the door by applying his kicking and punching the door. Let us take cases of what happened after this-

Case -1

Anil holds the door and pressed it when his father prepared for an attack with the lateral surface of his hand. He took himself to the end of the back of the lift. There he stood for some time and prepared for an attack. He said he was going backwards to gain some momentum and then ran to door with all his force. But what a distance of five steps would give velocity and what momentum and his target would be helpful for an archer. He crushed the finger’s of son and there was a repel force between the door and Anil and he shrieked and again took his sitting place!!! And thus lateral attack was over hurting Anil.

Case - 2

Now Anil’s father urges his wife to press it and felt guilty for crushing his son’s fingers. She refuses but when Anil’s father says this time he is confident then she agrees. But he was confident in crushing or opening she did not ask. Then Anil’s father without gaining any momentum punched the door closing his eyes and when Anil's mother saw it was upon his face not on door's she slept totally on ground and when after striking he opened his eyes he started shrieking and swaying fingers up and down and thus punching case was over hurting Anil's father.

Case -3

Now Anil's father totally frustrated thought his last way of attacking that is by kicking the door. So he stood up and kicked with as much power he had but his leg which was supporting the action slipped and he fell down on the sleeping Anil's mother's fingers and hence she woke up shrieking and hence the kicking case was over with Anil's mother's fingers being crushed.

So after the three cases all of the family members were hurt depressed and holding their fingers and the door took all the chance of winning against Anil's father with 3-0. After such a battle everyone participating much or not were hurt but the door was shining and metal was showing its lustrous and hardness property.

So they looking at each other laughed so much that Anil's mother remembered the last night and started laughing more and other thought here that laughing power creates electricity!!!

So they all laughed till a demon or a devil would fear to come near them and meddle with them in shouting and laughing and it worked and they reached the ground floor and then they all rushed to the receptionist and crashed near his table like mad men and women.

‘What there is no line cut off?’

‘You little chunk of dirt what do you know about supply?’

‘I know that you had no back-up because this was a rather new than the others and have not earned a lot of vitamin M (Money) for it. Am I correct?’

Receptionist shook his head in agreement and felt sorry for them as they were stuck in the lift for the one hour. They all went for taking breakfast with a happy mind of visiting the museum but the electricity cut had made their journey to the place of motto late.

THE MUSUEM VISIT

After the shocking moments in the lift they finally managed to go through the mental depression of not visiting the museum and were able to take a cab. But the day was not theirs. That day the cab drivers were in a strike as they were not getting many passengers to carry and also demanded no private vehicles we would allow. This was a positive sign for them but almost.

‘Who is alpha?’ Anil rushed near a cab driver and asked him.

‘Sorry, but I am in no mood to answer any silly question of anyone and we are in a strike can’t you visualize it.’

‘You only do strike and pollution of all varieties that exist in the sphere like noise, air and water by...’ Anil was not able to finish his sentence and started exercising his legs otherwise he would have been finished by those drivers.

‘This child does not want the strike. ATTACK’

‘What! Am I playing negative role?’ asked Anil.

But he got an undesirable answer from the angry mob that is Attack. So he thought that it would be a better option to run away from here than survive them and he rushed. The drivers followed him but for few displacement and then retreated as if Anil was so fast but the reason was in the back of their back that they didn’t wanted a loss on their strike day!!!

But Anil was neither so fast nor so slow that he could reach the museum with the kindness of his legs. He then stopped seeing he was far away and his parents are also far away. So he ceased his marathon and tried to rescue his parents from the clutches of invisibility. He gazed and stared and did all the varieties of looking but all was not in vain but he was able to see a cab in which two peoples were there resembling his parents were shouting at him. Listening the shouts, Anil was able to realize someone is there to catch hold of him in the city and he entered the cab.

Entering the cab he was able to hear a familiar voice of his father – ‘Alpha who is? Can you suggest me alpha runner cum searcher? Because I know you alpha search but no success still want I know about your failure histories. And yes I add forgot to tell that (now in a rude voice) you can only shout and produce lactic acid in legs. Who would bring a cab for museum?’

‘I knew you would do it!!!’- Replied Anil

After sometime they reached museum which should be kept in a museum!!!

They entered and the guards almost made up of stones in some Roman era though transported here were gazing at them seriously.

‘What you are gazing? Are we a historical soldier or future ghosts that you are gazing? I have come here to find alpha. Do you know them?’ Anil replied.

The soldiers were not able to balance them and laughingly one of them said- ‘This is a museum not a Greek library. And go silently otherwise the guards who you would think made up of stones would really throw you out and we would kick you.’

So Anil and his parents went to see the museum giving an entry ticket of 1000 INR per head. Inside there were five big halls and they thought it is a nice place to spend their day but when they entered on hall they saw many soldiers made up of steel and Anil went near one and said Good Morning and from inside a sound came Good Morning and he thought that it was a real person but seldom knew the true fact.

He then whispered – ‘Do you know alpha?’

Then it whispered ‘Do you know alpha?’

He then was able to realize that it was unreal steel added with a recorder and speaker.
(But these were kept in box near that steel soldier!!!)

Anil then made joke with him-‘Good morning you fool’

He retreated – ‘Good morning you fool.’

Anil then frowned and went away to next soldier like the previous one and said (thinking it as the previous one) - ‘Good morning you fool’

He got some different reply – ‘Bad morning you fool and silently go away from here.’

Anil then urged his father to go away from that hall but his father stayed there for some time and then they went to another hall. This time Anil moved through the hall keeping at least a distance of one hand from them!!!

So in this way he revolved four halls but the last was the unique of all as in that hall there was a game zone in the museum!!!

Now in the last hall Anil went inside the game zone along with his father and the first was a testing game for families and to win prizes. So they went inside it and then they were able to contest against another family who were waiting for another family to contest and the game began. The game was equal till last question then a single question was all well to beat the other family but neither of the family was able to answer the question so the match was tied and the prize was distributed among them.

The next game was ask any doubt and get answer and Anil took his chance to ask ‘Who is alpha in Greece?’

‘NEAR’ came the answer and when he was going to turn back he heard ‘Where is money’

What money? You say an answer which a brilliant can't understand and you are asking for money. You are a good modifier of dialogue that Give me blood and I would give you freedom to give me money I will give you answer. This is really known as business. What you will do with the money? Give to the God or to the computer!!!' Anil finished his words and walked away.

Then he went out to see a cab and the soldiers were gazing at the Anil's family and Anil fearfully said –'No bye because this museum should be the eighth wonder of the world where some recorders and speaker are kept in soldier and some use brain and when answer give money is needed. You all are really great no one will know of which you are shit (as an ant injected its methanoic acid or formic acid to the legs of Anil) set!!!' And then Anil and his family went away.

THE BATHING

After they reached their lodge they dismantled their clothes and then went to the bathroom and another object had been ingested by the latrine that was the only hand sanitizer they had kept over the flush box and went away to the museum. This time Anil's family felt proud that they were able to feed the hunger!!!

The other day Anil rose earlier than his parents and then took his bath in the room meant for bathing as no one takes bath in kitchen. This remembered Anil of two very humorous incidents that he had gone through.

Once in a show he saw the mentors of the program were showing a modular kitchen with its specialty which later became a joke record for Anil and he remembered it whenever he saw there was going to be a fight between him and his friend. Thus it became a defence mechanism for his health. So I am going to present the modified form adopted by Anil-

The first mentor be mentor and the second be Anil (according to his narration) then the plot follows like this-

The mentors come inside the kitchen and then mentor starts describing as it was a modular kitchen in which Anil said which means it is no more a kitchen and has been transformed to a historical museum.

The mentor then says that it is a place where a cook cooks food and Anil replies that kitchen is a place to cook and not a place to be used as toilets or bathrooms!!!

The mentor then continues that it has three selves when Anil says that it might be made to any number to some extent and then the mentor got angry and rushes after Anil for describing badly which was cut by the channel by a advertise.

Then after some time the program comes back to action with someone else who looks somewhat business-like. The description then continues and the mentor at last says that the kitchen is available on their site which meant on the house which they had partnered with but the new fellow said that first books then clothes and then vehicles now house parts are online available and if this tradition goes on sons and daughter would be sold at buy one get one free or 10% to 20% off on their MRPs!!!

This scenario you all can know was done by Anil as he changed his costume and did this last act which just was enough for the mentor to laugh than become angry. But remember this was Anil's but the original was somewhat attractive for the pockets than the mouth.

The second thought that flashed through his mind was that of a very busy person. Once in a public toilet Anil saw a man came holding the phone and was under serious case of nature's attendant. So without paying money he ran to one of the toilets and when we all heard the flush we opened the door to know what the voice was coming after the flush and also before it. We saw that the person was talking in one hand and flushing in the other hand and you may guess the rest!!!

After this he took bath and rested for some moment then he did laughed so ferociously that his parents were forced to exit their heads from their respective pillows. They saw Anil laughing and almost sleepily they asked the reason and Anil told an incident which he modified from a film extract and it was like that in the Anil's mind-

A milkmaid brought a Jersey cow and tied it to the strongest fence so that the cow may not fled and then borrowed a translating machine from his neighbor scientist and attached it to the head of the cow. Then she started thinking of some dresses to attract his fellow milkmaids.

First she dressed him in a superman's costume and the cow thought which was going to be showed in the machine that what he to be was a mooman or milky man!!!

Then she dressed him in a Sherlock style and it showed that the cow thought that what was going to be his name was – Sherlock Moos or what!!!

Then she brought dress of her father which was written TBC (meaning To Be Continued told by her father) in large handwriting and she said that it was its name The Best Cow and then the cow asked how to take it off and she said Moo three times and she would take it out and then the cow asked was he to say Moo three times (as the milkmaid had said the cow that she was going to attach the machine to it) or Moo three times and the milkmaid's head reeled and the cow thought which form it has to take – the mooman or Sherlock moos or Moo three times!!!

This fact awakened his parents and they were successful in taking their bath without offering some instrumental sacrifice to the white basket and keep all the remaining things safe. Then they went out to take food rather than to take the mattresses to one floor up and do some VBF or Very Busy Fellow work and then argue. So after that they came to their bed without mattresses which were taken to the washing area and discussed their next trip.

THE WATER PARK

When the funny moments passed away and they had already finished their breakfast not breaking their fast which they hadn't kept at any cost. Then Anil's father asked about the next place to visit and they thought about temples and then Anil said it was just like searching the meaning of apple in the pages where only words starting with 'E' were present!!!

Then Anil's father made some sense and said about the parks and the result was furious shouting from his spouse and descendant.

'Comedy Park, Haunted Park, Hanging Park, Invisible Park, Unknown Park, Imaginary Park, Grass Park...' and then Anil was interrupted by his mother.

'You forgot some like Jurassic Park, Snake Park, Joker's Park, and Rocking Park...' Then she was interrupted by her spouse.

'What nasty parks are you mentioning? Make some sense. Have you ever visited these? Or your brains have allowed the insanity to accommodate itself?'

'Water Park.' Anil and his mother at a time replied.

'Now this makes some sense from your nonsense.'

So they finally transferred them to the cab and the Water Park inducing an inductive resonance in Anil's mind to continue his so called alpha search. They discussed the money matter with the driver and took his help to reach the 'Woola water enjoy woola' as Anil called it when they reached the door which was hopefully open and had received some morning visitors.

They saw the ticket counter and then were happy but soon became unhappy. The happiness was created by the unavailability of the money collector and created some kind of potential energy in the blue pockets of Anil's father and thus they went inside but soon became unhappy due to availability of the security and again the potential energy was changed to kinetic energy in case of money as they came to that the counter was closed today but still they have to take ticket from the security guard!!!

Anil this time again asked the question ‘Do you know a person named alpha?’

‘Does everyone hang their name plate with name? The dog will be the only hopeful fellow to attain this enlightenment in my view dear small fellow. I have a difficulty in knowing your name can you please hang your name in the neck name plate?’ the guard said with some fury.

‘Why the...’

‘Go inside and no mischief.’

The first area that was going to be visited by the family was the slides and they went there and took a tube for each. But it was a difficult task when they were asked to make it hurry up. Anil was confused about the color of the tube he should attached to him so as to slide the water slides. Anil then took a yellow one and then went to slide but he was not so lucky. When he was in the middle of the slide his tube got stuck in a screw and when he was trying to escape him another backward force altered the matter and the tube started escaping all the air it had ingested. So Anil also flew with it and when it egested all air above Anil’s father’s head, Anil fell over his father with such force that his father along with some water got out from the pool beneath the slide!!!

Anil’s mother was laughing at the instance and when some water splashed over her and she was totally drenched Anil and his father repaid her with the laugh but twice the amount. She then felt disgusted and again went up the slide to enjoy the ride.

Then they all saw a very old person and Anil got the idea old is wise and went to him and asked secretly saving him from his parents about alpha and he said that there is no such person he knows. Then Anil joined his parents near the roller coaster and they took the ride. But this time everyone who were enjoying were unlucky. The Benjamin Franklin matter or electricity ran away from the spot when the roller coaster touched its peak and you might surely know how the people would have enjoyed the panoramic beauty from that point and some said it was boring and then suddenly the electricity came and the boring changed to danger filled shouting. They suddenly felt like falling from the Sputnik I during it crossed Earth's exosphere!!!

And when the ride stopped suddenly it was just as if the parachute was not allowing the drag to help the freely falling fellows and they were fortunate enough to feel as if they crashed with a rock but were safe!!!

Thus after all this excitement they all went away from the ride and went to next and the last thing which was crossing a water maze game. They went inside it but they didn't knew the result that it was truly a maze not to be enjoyed and when they saw that it was a game they should never try. The moment they took wrong turn, a water force blasted against them and when at last they saw the exit but feeling weakness they turned right instead of going straight another large water force helped them to go out. Lastly they went out and saw that they were feeling as if they had just come from inside the Pacific Ocean. They rushed to take their bag and they saw a monkey stealing some food items Anil's father went to search a stick. But Anil went near the monkey disobeying his mother and then asked 'Do you know alpha?'

Then imagine the monkey's answer.

What to imagine? Do monkeys ever tell? And thus it created its noise.

‘I asked about alpha and not to listen your khi khi (sound by monkey)’ and the monkey frightened went away. Then he showed his success to his parents and especially his father that how his question can frighten the monkeys.

‘But it was not your question and my stick’ replied Anil’s father.

Anil touched his head and thought about it which still remained a conjecture for Anil.

THE WORST TRIES EVER TRIED

The time elapsed quite fast and furiously instead of slow and luxuriously till they reached the Room number 1 in the lodge. Their Anil took a great deep breath and then said that he was totally disgusted of the known fact that he was acting like a real fool of the Greece in front of himself. The reason was to complete the homework!!!

They all were tired enough of their travel and the scent and greenery of the motherland was calling them gently and the wind was blowing their minds away to their pretty homes. The next day was their return trip in the same flight they had passed through to come here. And Anil hoped that he should be able to complete his homework.

‘Stop, really for god’s sake don’t stop and stop near the garden’s parking’, cried Anil’s mother in a somewhat shouting manner.

‘A garden, really it is a garden.’ said father.

‘Otherwise what you thought that supposed to be- A commodo dragon latrine eating up your neurons!!!’

This induced some laughing sense in driver and he crashed the so called Dr.’s Wolf Wagons (instead of Volkswagen) by the famous name donor ‘Anil’.

The vehicle to which the Wolf Wagons fought was of the same but different color called which was white and when a little black spot comes to our face we shriek but when the white cars get scratched their drivers shriek keeping the surface of their face as the car’s door!!!

This remembered Anil of some previous history he had passed. Once his parents were confused about the train to take as they were arguing about its final destination. They argued about two stations which were opposite to each other. So Anil suggested that the train comprised of two engines and when the turning points show their beauty the engines separate to cover the both destinations!!!

As Anil and his parents went inside the garden they noticed a fellow they had met earlier that day in the water park and it was none other than the black faced shining (you might be thinking these adjectives would be lovely for a man) monkey!!!

Anil was first confused how it came here so fast and the monkey understanding the curiosity of Anil, pointed towards the vehicle's roof.

'Oh gosh! This is totally ridiculous. A monkey sitting as a flag mast on the Wolf Wagons.' Said Anil touching his forehead and remembering why most of the people were laughing at them on their way.

The garden proved to be the most amused place for Anil's parents as Anil took part in a dare game and the prize was very much high for Anil as such 3000 INR .

Anil went near the manager and asked about the game and the manager said-'Son you would be given a ridiculous task and you should do it with maximum of three wrongs.'

'Okay sir, give me the work.'

'You choose any of the three cards you wish.' The manager took the entry fees and showed three identical cards and Anil chose one.

After reading it he said 'what ridiculous?'

It was written to collect as many signatures minimum of five from the people in the garden except the relatives for any cause but it should include a pointing towards a child. The maximum no to signs is three.

Anil went near a fine lady and asked to sign the paper.

'For what?' asked the lady.

‘For innocent children who did nothing like that child and are crying lonely.’ And he started torturing emotionally by crying.

The child was seen by the lady and he asked for pen to sign. Anil was becoming happy when the mother saw his child mother asked ‘What happened?’

‘Mother the money that I had stolen from my friends is stolen by someone.’

The lady disgusted went away and Anil said ‘I was so close.’

Then he saw another gentleman and this time asked for a sign again and stated the reason that these are for those children who are orphans and pointed towards a child and suddenly the child said –‘Oh! Mother you brought the candy thank you.’

This made the stranger and Anil’s parents laugh till their stomachs were aching.

Two wrongs were gone and the last chance remained.

‘Sir could you make me a help?’

‘How?’

‘Just sign this keeping your mouth shut.’

‘But why?’

‘Sir these signatures are for the helpless children who are poor.’ And Anil pointed towards a child who was looking poor as some cracks in the lower parts of pants.

Then suddenly a rich red colored car came and the lad went into it and when asked about how his pants were so torn and he replied it’s my modern style and the fellow went away laughing.

Anil fell down and said ‘what are they trying to antagonize me or myself?’

But in the stands the manager and Anil’s parents were laughing heartily and when Anil came deserted to the manager he gave him the reward of THE WORST TRIES EVER TRIED.

Then Anil and his parents carried the trophy and then went to the vehicle but before they started Anil asked to check the roof and they saw the monkey and Anil did some monkey sounds to frighten and show his father that it was his sound and not the sticks held by him.

The monkey frightened went away and then when Anil turned back to say his father that it was his sound but he fell down as he saw that his father was again holding a stick and was laughing at him.

‘What the hell is this conjecture?’ and the monkey capturing one of the tree branches was laughing showing all his yellow teeth!!!

ALPHA - I GOT YOU!

‘We are going tomorrow and really the school opens after the next day’s next day. Father do something and help me find this alpha and please I am serious.’ Said Anil after they reached their room and took some rest before the packing starts.

‘Oh! Boy you know I have many fantabulous ideas revolving around my mind. For one instance I had several but a few that is the super three I have selected.’ replied Anil’s father.

‘Tell me!’ Anil said almost shrieking.

‘Remember that you shouldn’t disturb me while I am telling’ and these words attracted Anil’s mother’.

‘The first is that you are not successful and remember that when you think you are unsuccessful and bored then tell yourself I am unsuccessful and bored. Again if you feel bored then repeat these through your mouth and continue repeating the words till you feel asleep telling these. It really works as your energy comes back after sleep.’

After a moment’s pause, ‘If you are still not satisfied then bring a spoon and fill water of a one litre but still you will see that only a spoonful of water is contained in the spoon and then you’ll get angry. After that try to jump into the spoon and still you are not hurt then jump into it again and still if are not satisfied then jump again till you don’t feel satisfied.’

‘Still if you will feel bored then go to the top and jump from there and if you don’t hurt yourself badly you go again to the top and jump down and then again you feel bored go to the top and again jump, it will fill you with a sportsman spirit. These methods are exclusively for the persons who are disgusted and desperate about their failure like you Anil’ and he started laughing very much and seeing these circumstances Anil himself was unavoidable to the N₂O sensation he had got.

‘The laughing is also a great anti-factor for boring’ Said Anil’s father.

‘You remember father once I had asked you what the most dangerous thing in the whole world is and what you had said’ Asked Anil.

‘Yeah! When you force your eyes to open to see a monstrous shark waiting for you to wake up and so he can devour. Then feared of the shark you start running inside the water and when you arrive the shoreline you start to run faster. And seeing this shark follows you on his caudal fins running after you as if those are its legs!!!’ laughed Anil’s father and his wife and son Anil joined him.

‘They then started packing their things and suddenly a cough was heard and immediately Anil’s mother said ‘Show yourself or else we will command the commodo dragon latrine to eat the whole ribs and bones of your body’ and she can’t stop her laugh.

‘Sorry but I wanted to ask if you really are going tomorrow?’ asked a familiar voice.

‘John!’

‘John!’

‘John!’

All the three of them exclaimed.

‘Long time no see dear John.’

‘I was somewhat affected by fever and cough and you know what it is like when would be saying something and the mucus would show his disgusting face you would never wonder about!!!’ John was not looking at all serious and was joyful.

‘And now what happened?’ asked Anil.

‘Nothing but still everything. I mean the person you are searching is under the control of my soul’ and then was interrupted by Anil ‘Do you know alpha and is he or she your servant?’

‘Sorry dear but it is (becoming little bit nervous) me and only myself’ said a trembling John.

‘What! You are Alpha?’ Anil asked again.

‘I am going to say you the whole story. You remember the day when you first asked me this question and surely you thought it was really in the library and you rushed. I thought not of a person. Your father told me all the ridiculous thoughts of your of completing the homework. I saw some serious fact in it but I hesitated to tell anyone anything and thus I thought I would tell you the evening but due to black clouds I ran to my house and on the way I got drenched. So I got an extreme quick fever really and was unavailable. I am extremely sorry for that’ and John bent his head down.

‘Don’t feel like that it is okay’ said a sympathy donating Anil.

‘Thank you. Then I got to know that you all have said the receptionist that you were to go home as your flight date was arriving very fast. So somehow luckily I got recovered in a time that was quite essential. So I arrived here to tell all these facts’ and a smile washed the lips of John.

‘But I thought you are really John’ Said Anil.

‘I hate the name alpha as it has a real awkward title in my opinion to the first name Alpha’ said John in an undesirable voice supporting his thought.

‘Okay then can you us with come?’ Anil’s father came back to his old style.

‘Sorry it was a bit difficult to understand your words but if you ask to come to your country then I really am sorry’ Said John.

‘Why? There is no holiday for the workers?’ asked Anil.

‘There is holiday and I along with four others have been granted ten days summer vacation and after the ten days it would pass to someone else but I can’t make a ticket to go with you’ said John.

‘We will manage that matter John or shall I say Alpha’ said Anil’s father really helping Anil.

THE ESCAPE PLAN AND REALLY THE SCHOOL OPENS!

Anil became a fellow of elation and jumped and leaped on the sofa that had made them the worst kind of person on the very first day. Their body was covered with the dust particles. Then they faced the commodo dragon latrine and just their mood became miserable as if the fluid secreting hormone (FSH) of the latrine had just been turned to hyper secretion!!!

The latrine played a very important part in the life of Anil and his parents as it engulfed all the new and old, used and unused, black or colored though some are not described in the above lines. Then it provided a water bucket chain to throw the materials into the larger drainage system in that area!!!

Thus Anil remembered all those experienced and expired moments in Greece and thought to put all these in a diary and read some time when the mood of the face is gloomy. Then they started to pack and John got himself busy in packing and asking the manager that he would be unavailable in the vacation granted to him at a real crucial moment.

In room number 1, Anil asked-‘Really the school opens the day after tomorrow. I can’t believe this. Just ridiculous and yes the time should be expanded as in summer the inflated tubes expand. But still who will expand this? We. This is cent percent impossible. Now father don’t estimate that it is I’m possible.’

‘Come on, I busy am in packing and if don’t help you clothes would your donated to be the orphans and if they aren’t then to the commodo dragon latrine available’ and Anil’s father packed his clothes and laughed.

The day to leave the lodge has arrived and the manager and receptionist thanked them to stay at their lodge. Anil’s father said that they should leave the lodge three hours before and Anil said ‘what should you do there-chanting oh my god we came two hours earlier the flight and I am going to sleep. If the flight arrives you would wake me up. Then the flight will arrive and we would rush forgetting you and sitting in the flight we would remember you and search you in your bag!!!’

So after the bidding moments they left the lodge two hours earlier. They reached there and Anil asked his father not to try any kind of sleeping effect on himself otherwise the consequences had been described by me in the lodge.

The hour to take the flight came and the father told about his plan and Anil shouted that this should never work at all and they are to be caught. But still no other alternatives were appealing to Anil he just crashed through that to take the risk and a fear was there that if the checker asks about his ticket.

After the plane landed the checker started the checking process and when Anil saw three families and a single old lady had gone he started running towards the check door without the ticket. Also at that moment the checker and the guards saw no more people had arrived the door as the plane had just arrived in its port and turned backwards. Thus taking the chance Anil took entry and as Anil entered the door the checker realized the matter and turned to chase Anil but Anil’s father had the role to play.

He asked the checker to go inside later and check their and gave the cause that his family is a nervous one and they want to go inside and made themselves secure. So after checking Anil’s family he (the checker) went along with Anil’s family and saw that Anil was sitting along the old lady and gossiping.

‘Does he your some sort of relation?’ asked the checker.

‘Yeah some sort of’ replied the lady.

But Anil's heart was thumping as if in any moment it would come out of the thoracic cavity!!!

'Why did he rush inside the plane?' asked the checker again.

'To bring these chocolates' replied Anil.

'Yeah'

And then the checker went away to his duty and the questionnaire was framed and over in just little rather I should say in just 10 seconds to be approximate.

And when the plane started the seat remained empty and Anil went back to join his family who helped him very much and looking at each other they started laughing.

Then Anil asked 'Why didn't he ask me to produce the ticket?'

'When two hundred are to be checked how can he waste the precious time for one!!!? '

Thus the flight went smoothly. On the way someone asked Anil- 'You found alpha?'

Anil recognized the face and said 'Yes I am truly successful and have you changed you to the other agencies?'

'If you can find alpha in Greece then why can't I do that?'

Anil made the air hostess of their arrival plane to alpha and his family and then the hostess asked alpha the proof that he was alpha.

'I have the birth certificate.'

'Keep it. It is really a valuable document and might be used where you are going to land.'

The moment of landing arrival in motherland arrived and they went to their home or Anil's home. The day was the last as they reached home in early morning and Anil did all his chores and then again said 'the school is really opening tomorrow. Just ridiculous!!!'

That day also passed and Anil was totally ready for the reopening day but thought the fact that school was really opening today. Just disgusting!!! On the way to their house's door Anil's mother greeted him with Happy School Reopening day. So Anil took find Alpha as the longest project work of this season.

As soon as Anil reached their school everyone asked about him and they realized the total fact. The mathematics class arrived and the teacher asked if they had completed their homework and he noticed a new fellow but didn't say anything.

Then he apologized the students that he was unable to give the toughest question that was left incomplete and wrote the correct question. At that instance Anil said that he had completed that one also.

'But how?' asked the teacher.

'Sir he is alpha and I got him in Greece. I did everything' Anil said proudly

The teacher was astonished to see alpha and checked his five senses to see he was real and not a single word came out of the gaping mouth. Then regaining his own senses he asked 'Are you really alpha?'

'No not at all.'

And Anil thought about all the problems he had passed and most importantly the risk at the airport. 'What!!!' saying this he touched his body to the floor and started sobbing.

'I am really Alpha Jade. I had learned these tricks from Anil.'

THANK YOU!!!
